'SHOUT ABOUT SHARED LIVES' ON THE RADIO!

Birmingham Hospital Broadcasting Network (BHBN)

The Sandwell Shared Lives Team recently took to the airwaves with Birmingham Hospital Broadcasting Network (BHBN) to shine a light on the Shared Lives service and encourage more people to consider becoming carers. The interview will air starting Monday, June 15, coinciding with the kickoff of National Shared Lives Week.

This year's theme for Shared Lives Week is "Shout About Shared Lives," emphasising that it's "Care Worth Talking About!" The team certainly did just that!

During the interview, the team discussed how Shared Lives matches adults who need support with compassionate carers, creating meaningful relationships and providing a support system to unpaid family carers. Listeners will hear first-hand how the scheme empowers people to live more independently, while remaining part of a family setting.

The radio feature provided a fantastic opportunity to raise awareness of Shared Lives across Birmingham and beyond, reaching new audiences and highlighting the rewarding role carers play in transforming lives. The team hopes the broadcast will inspire more people to come forward, learn more about Shared Lives, and consider joining a growing community of carers who make a genuine difference every day.

Sharing your home,
sharing your life...
